

PHANTOM OF THE BLACK HILLS

Born To Gun

"Tell your God to get ready for blood"...Whether your devotion is to doom or destiny, the Phantom of the Black Hills will take you into Death's Dominion, a world where banjo pickers moonlight as murderers and a wanton fiddler takes his hat off to no one. On Born To Gun, the follow-up to the acclaimed debut Ghosts, each song is a roll of the bones, and it shows that devils do howl (while angels moan). From the ominous "Scratchin' At My Door" to the grim finale "No-No", Born To Gun makes a music that brings with it a murderous implulse and a desire for revenge... whether you call it Hellbilly, Doom-Country or Cowpunk, listen to Born To Gun for yourself, you'll know you've never heard anything like it before.

Reviews for Ghosts:

"Few albums take me by such a complete surprise as the debut by Phantom of the Black Hills' "Ghosts". From the first sounds of a fiddle decompose into a thuddingly dreadful banjo pluck on "Confessions of a Barn Burner" we know that there is an evil journey ahead of us. "Ghosts" manages to avoid the biggest pitfall of albums in the Gothic Americana genre: pretentiousness. All too often, even established artists, push the nostalgic or demonic angle too hard and it comes off as forced and fake. Phantom of the Black Hills avoid this and have created a simply fantastic album. "Ghosts" is by far not only one of the best albums of 2009, but is definitely Required Rodentia." Rodentia Magazine

"If Glenn Danzig and Al Jourgensen stayed up all night listening to old Porter Wagoner and Hank Sr. records and drinking homemade corn liquor, then decided to make an album together, it still wouldn't come close to the bleak, inventive darkness of this eleven-track hatework. Can't recommend it enough." Jon Steffens - Wolves Hollow Magazine

Key Selling Points:

- RIYL Hank III, Johnny Cash, Ministry, Scott H. Biram
- Produced by Cramps bassist Chopper Franklin.
- Fanatical world-wide fan base of Phantom Riders.
- Extensive merchandising campaign with Chop House Design.

RATCHET BLADE
RECORDS

Track Listing:

1. Scratchin' At My Door
2. Cross Yourself (Before You Cross Me)
3. Haunted Men
4. Thief In The House
5. Whorehouse
6. Step On Down
7. That's How I Pull Rank
8. World Spinnin' Round
9. We're Under Attack
10. Black Hills Chant
11. No - No

Release Date	2/22/11
Format	CD
Wholesale Price CD	$7.00
Catalog Number	RBR 715
Suggested List	$10.98
File Under:	Americana/Outlaw Country

UPC #8-85007-12282-1